BEAVER DAM FIRE STILL A MYSTERY

State Fire Marshal Called On to Solve It.

ESTIMATED LOSS IS $30,000

A Large Part of the Business Section Was Totally Wiped Out.

INSURANCE FOR ABOUT HALF

Fire of a suspicious origin broke out at Beaver Dam about 1 o'clock Friday morning and for awhile the whole business section of the town seemed doomed. As it was, the fire swept away a large section of the town on the west side of Main street, nearly opposite the Beaver Dam Hotel, entailing a total loss of about $30,000, with only a little over half that amount of insurance.

The origin of the fire is still a mystery, but there are rumors that burglars were probably the cause of it. The young lady night operator at the Beaver Dam telephone exchange, which was situated in the block that was burned, was called at 1 o'clock and told that it was thought burglars were breaking into the safe in Gentry's store. Some one passed the store and saw a light in the rear, inside. It was only a few minutes later that the telephone operator and scores of the citizens were alarmed by an explosion. Then it was discovered that the dry goods store was a mass of flames.

The volunteer fire department was called out and did the work in confining the fire to one block. J. F. Casebier's hardware store, located on the corner, over which is the telephone exchange, was saved from total destruction by the volunteer firemen.

There are a number of people who do not believe that burglars started the fire. Mr. Gentry had recently installed a gas lighting plant in his store and it is suggested that it was the cause of the fire and that the explosion resulted when the fire reached the gas tank.

The cause of the conflagration is still a mystery, and the local authorities have called on the State Fire Marshal to make an investigation.

A list of the losses and the amount of insurance carried follows:

J. F. Gentry, dry goods; loss on stock, $11,000; insurance $7,000. Building owned by J. H. Barnes; loss, $3,500; insurance, $1,500.

D. M. Stewart & Company, dry goods; loss, $8,000; insurance, $4,000. Building owned by J. P. Stevens; loss $3,000; insurance, $1,000.

S. T. Mason, groceries; loss on stock and fixtures, $1,700; insurance, $1,000; loss on building $1,000; insurance, $500.

J. A. Tate, restaurant and confectionery; loss, $800; no insurance. Building owned by W. T. Austin; loss $800; no insurance.

Stevens & Company, livery and feed stable; loss on building and feed, $3,000; no insurance. All the horses and vehicles were saved.

D. L. D. Sanderfur, groceries; loss on stock and fixtures, $1,000; no insurance.

J. F. Caghiere & Company, hardware; no damage to stock, but $500 damage to roof of building.

DAMAGE FROM ARMY WORM
$8,000,000 IN A MONTH

Washington, Aug. 10.—More than $8,000,000 damage was done to crops in the South last month by the army worms; according to unofficial estimates of the Department of Agriculture.

Whether the season's second brood of the insects, already appearing in South Carolina, Alabama, Georgia and other States, will increase this loss, is of much concern to Government experts. All the means at the department's disposal are being used to meet the emergency.

Reports to the department say the army worms, at some places half a foot deep on railroad tracks, have stopped trains. The loss is placed at $1,000,000 in Georgia, while in Arkansas 20 per cent. of the corn and 10 per cent. of the cotton planted have been destroyed.

Losses also have been great in Tennessee, the Carolinas, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana.

On some of these, particularly Louisiana, they exceed the million mark. The corn, cotton, sugar cane and rice crops from Louisiana to the Atlantic have been affected.

WAS STABBED TO DEATH
OVER A GAME OF CARDS

Owenton, Ky., Aug. 10.—J. T. Kenetver, 48 years old, a respected newsdealer of Owenton, was stabbed to death by Ollie Jump, last night in Craps Hollow, a secluded spot near town, known to residents of Owen county as a gamblers' resort.

The men were engaged in a game of cards. Harsh feelings had existed between Jump and Kenetver for some time. At the time of the murder both men were under the influence of liquor, and it is said Kenetver accused Jump of dealing the cards unfairly. The fight followed. Kenetver died within five minutes after being stabbed.

Jump was arraigned in Judge Yancy's court this morning and pleaded guilty to the charge of murder in the first degree and a special term of court will be called to try the case.

Kenetver is survived by a wife and one child. Jump has a wife and five children.

Six other men were arrested on a charge of gambling, to which they pleaded guilty.

CAMDEN AND HAGER TO HEAD STATE COMMITTEE

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 9.—Behind closed doors, in the Tyler hotel, the Democratic State Central and State Executive Committees, in joint session, to-night, named J. N. Camden, of Versailles, as chairman of the State Campaign Committee, and Judge S. W. Hager, of Owensboro, as vice chairman.

The resolution naming them was offered by W. B. White, member of the Central Committee from the State-at-large, and empowers the chairman to name the remaining members of the committee, to consist of not less than one member from the State-at-large.

He also is to name a secretary. He said to-night he would not decide definitely upon his appointments until later.

No name, other than that of Mr. Camden, was offered in connection with the campaign committee chairmanship.

JOHN F. BIBLE OWNS A BIG BULL MOOSE HEAD

Hopkinsville, Ky., Aug. 10.—Col. Roosevelt and others may be interested to learn that the biggest mounted bull moose head in the world is in Hopkinsville. It came by express to-day from John F. Bible, president of the Kentucky Manufacturers' Association, from his former home in Michigan, and is a trophy of one of his hunts. The moose weighed 2,350 pounds and stood seven feet and a half high. Official sporting records show the head is the largest in preservation. Mr. Bible has refused an offer of $6,000 for it.

Lightning's Fatal Pursuit.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 10.—Persistent in its pursuit, lightning to-day killed Dan Williams and his pair of horses.

Two weeks ago Williams, a farmer of South Brooklyn, near here, lost a pair of horses when lightning struck his barn.

To-day he went to Elyria, bought another pair and was driving them home when a bolt descended, killing Williams and his team.

WILSON'S SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE

Of Democratic Presidential Nomination

HAS THE PROPER RING TO IT

Not to Catch Votes, But for Right and Justice to the People.

GREAT IDEAS OF A GREAT MAN

Seagirt, N. J., Aug. 7.—Impressive austerity marked the delivery of the speech of Gov. Wilson this afternoon accepting the Democratic nomination for President. The executive unfolded a fabric of political beliefs and invoked a rule "of right and justice" in politics.

A motley throng gathered at the summer capital, including the notification committee, Democratic governors, college professors, summer folk and marching clubs. Attentive seriousness was the attitude of the audience. The applause was frequent. The Governor was ill at ease because of the reading of the address instead of speaking extemporaneously, as he is accustomed.

Senator-elect Ollie James' speech of notification was punctuated by frequent demonstrations from the crowd.

From the broad veranda of the white-coated house where the governors of New Jersey are wont to spend their summers, the nominee delivered his speech. Grouped beneath the wide-spreading willows and elms were the most prominent guests, hedged in by clumps of ferns and hushes.

After thanking the committee of notification and expressing his profound sense of responsibility in accepting the nomination, the Governor said he realized that he was expected to speak plainly, to talk politics and open the campaign "in words whose meaning no one need doubt." And he was expected to speak, he added, to the country as well as to the committee. The following is an excerpt of his speech:

"We must speak," he continued, by way of preface, "not to catch votes, but to satisfy the thought and conscience of a people deeply stirred by the conviction that they have come to a critical turning point in their moral and political development."

"Plainly it is a new age," he went on. "It requires self restraint not to attempt too much, and yet it would be cowardly to attempt too little. In the broad light of this new day, we stand face to face with—what? Liberty, not with questions of party, not with a contest for office, not with a petty struggle for advantage. With great questions of right and of justice, rather—questions of national development, of the development of character and of standards of action no less than of a better business system. The forces of the nation are asserting themselves against every form of special privilege and private control, and are seeking bigger things than they have ever heretofore achieved."

"There are two great things to do. One is to set up the rule of justice and of right in such matters as the tariff, the regulation of the trusts and the prevention of monopoly, the adaption of our banking and currency laws to the very uses to which our people must put them, the treatment of those who do the daily labor in our factories and mines throughout all our great industrial and commercial undertakings, and the political life of the people of the Philippines, for whom we hold governmental power in trust, for their service, not our own. The other, the additional duty, is the great task of protecting our people and our resources and of keeping open to the whole people the doors of opportunity through which they must, generation by generation, pass. If they are to make conquest of their fortunes in health, in freedom, in peace, and in contentment. In the performance of this second great duty we are face to face with questions of conservation and of development, questions of forests and waterpowers and mines and waterways, of the building of an adequate merchant marine.

"We have got into trouble in recent years chiefly because these large things, which ought to have been handled by taking counsel with as large a number of persons as possible, because they touch every interest and the life of every class and region, have in fact been too often handled in private conference. They have been settled by very small, and often deliberately exclusive groups of men who undertook to speak for the whole nation, or, rather, for themselves in the terms of the whole nation—very honestly it may be, but very ignorantly sometimes, and very shortsightedly too—a poor substitute for genuine common counsel. No group of directors, economic or political, can speak for a people. They have neither the point of view nor the knowledge. Our difficulty is not that wicked and designing men have plotted against us, but that our common affairs have been determined upon too narrow a view, and by too private an initiative. Our task now is to effect a great readjustment and get the forces of the whole people once more into play. We need no revolution; we need no excited change; we need only a new point of view and a new method and spirit of counsel."

HOPELESS CRIPPLE MADE
SOUND BY NEW PROCESS

New York, Aug. 12.—By a feat of modern surgery a two-year-old boy, admitted to the Post Graduate Hospital five weeks ago with deformities which in the light of medical science of a few years or even months ago would have made him a hopeless cripple for life, returns to Waterbury, Conn., to-day sound and normal in limb and functions.

Bone transplantation, the newest line of experimentation in twentieth century surgery, reclaimed the young cripple. Bones taken from the bodies of healthy infants who had suffered violent deaths and placed in cold storage, were transplanted into the body of the boy, an entirely new operation, which can now be pronounced successful.

The little patient was born with deformed feet, commonly known as club feet, due to the fact that there were not the normal number of bones in the feet.

The ordinary corrective measures hitherto employed by surgeons in similar cases required the cutting of the ligaments and tissues and the gradual straightening of the feet by the use of braces and apparatus. This treatment occupied years, and even if it produced corrective effect, never gave required strength to the feet to bring about what might be termed an effectual cure.

HEAVY FLOW STRUCK BY DRILLERS IN NICHOLAS

Carlisle, Ky., Aug. 12.—A heavy flow of blue lick mineral water was struck by the drillers on the property of the Blue Lick Springs Company at Blue Lick Springs, this county, at a depth of 500 feet. In a few hours the mineral water had raised 470 feet in the well. The strike was made near the old well on the north side of the Licking river, where the strong vein of this water recently failed. With the bringing in of another strong vein of the water and the building of the Cincinnati, Licking Valley and Virginia railroad through the springs, it will probably become one of the leading summer and health resorts of the country.

Wealthy Boy Ends Life.

Covington, Ky., Aug. 12.—The body of Kenneth Carpenter, twenty-eight years old, son of a wealthy farmer residing near Richmond, Ky., was found dead on the steps in the rear of the Richmond district school at 7 o'clock this morning.

A wound in his forehead and a revolver lying a few feet from the body gave evidence of the manner in which he met death. The motive for the act is not known. About eight years ago Carpenter attempted suicide by draining the contents of a bottle of Paris green.

CAMPAIGN FUND BY THE PEOPLE

Solicited for Wilson and Marshal Ticket.

IS A CHANCE FOR EVERYBODY

To Contribute to An Untainted Fund—All Can Help
Some.

MODEST OFFERS ACCEPTED

(By Clyde H. Tavenner, Special Washington Cor. of The Herald.)

Washington, Aug. 10.—A campaign fund contributed wholly by the people, and untainted by a single dollar of contribution from illegal trusts and monopolies!

This is the watchword of Hon. James T. Lloyd, chairman of the National Democratic Congressional Committee in starting in to raise a campaign fund to carry on necessary organization and educational work looking toward the election of Democrats to Congress this fall.

The work of this committee in the 1910 campaign was something enormous. Every Democratic candidate for Congress in the United States was given valuable assistance, and millions upon millions of speeches, campaign books, etc., were distributed, increasing the number of Democratic workers everywhere and creating a vast amount of Democratic sentiment. The result was the election of a House of Representatives Democratic by a majority of 65.

This committee is confronted with an even more important campaign, and is to-day wholly without funds as a result of its refusal to accept "easy" money from special interests which would be in a position to expect legislative favors should their contributions be accepted for campaign purposes.

Every reader of this article can help the cause of Democracy and good government by making a contribution now while the committee is badly in need of funds. Whether your contribution is large or small, it will be useful. Checks or currency should be sent direct to either James T. Lloyd, chairman, or H. B. Flood, treasurer, of the National Democratic Congressional Committee, Washington, D. C. Contributions made earlier will do the most good.

KENTUCKIANS PLEASED WITH WILSON'S SPEECH

Washington, Aug. 10.—Senator-elect Ollie James, chairman, and Representative Ben Johnson, Kentucky members of the Wilson Notification Committee, returned to Washington this morning from Seagirt, both satisfied absolutely with the ceremony Wednesday and the acceptance speech of Gov. Wilson. "It was a great day and everything looks fine for Wilson," said Mr. James.

Representative Johnson said: "It was a splendid speech—progressive enough and conservative enough."

L. & N. Earnings.

Earnings of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company for the first week in August increased $35,420, compared with the same week last year. The earnings were $1,059,010, while for the first week of August, 1911, they were $1,023,590.

From July 1 to August 7 the earnings were $2,518,765, an increase of $208,427 over last year's receipts.

MACHINERY OUTWEIGHED
MILLIONS OF VOTERS

The Saturday Evening Post gives us this interesting reminder: "In 1908 there were seven million and a half Republican voters in the country. Last month Mr. Taft was nominated by 561 delegates, of whom 208 came from ten rockribbed Democratic States in the South that contain, all told, less than 400,000 Republican voters. He received 132 ballots from Iowa, Indiana, Michigan and New York, where voters had been carefully denied a fair chance to express their choice, but where the complexion of Republican thought must be on the whole, about like that in neighboring States that held primaries. In ten Republican States voters were given a chance to express their choice, and in these States Mr. Taft was rejected by two to one—carrying only one of them, Massachusetts, and that by a small margin. These ten States contain three and a quarter million Republican voters; but the issue was settled for them by the southern mercenaries and the northern bosses. A very small coterie in command of the machinery outweighed millions of mere voters."

CROWDING THEM OUT OF THE PARTY

Moose Portraits Inflamm Leaders to Action.

THE PICTURES OF C. M. BARNETT

And Other Moosers Consig
To Junk Heap—Adopt
Rigid Discipline.

BARNETT UNDESIRABLES OUT

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 7.—The Republican State Central Committee convened in called session to take up important party matters in the headquarters in the Galt House at 11:15 o'clock to-day, with the following members present:

At-Large—C. L. Scholl, Louisville, and J. F. Bosworth, Middles-boro.

First District—J. W. Landrum,
Mayfield.

Second District—J. W. McCulloch, Owensboro.

Third District—J. F. Taylor, Glasgow.

Fourth District—J. P. Haswell, Hardinsburg.

Fifth District—J. M. Chilton, Louisville.

Seventh District—H. G. Garrett, Winchester.

Eighth District—G. D. Florence,
Stamford.

R. P. Ernst, of the Seventh; E.
H. McCarthy, of the Ninth; J. A.
Scott, of the Tenth, and A. T. Siler, of the Eleventh district, were expected, but had not arrived when the committee went into session.

At the start, Chairman E.
T. Franks said that he noticed several pictures of heretofore prominent Republicans who had left the party adorning the walls of the State headquarters, naming Theodore Roosevelt, Cleo M. Barnett and Thomas L. Walker, and he said he would entertain a motion as to what disposition should be made of these pictures. C. L. Scholl, of Louisville, said: "Let them stay up on the wall that we can express our opinion of them." Col. J. W.
Landrum, of Mayfield, moved that the pictures of the three "Bull Moosers" be taken out of the headquarters. The motion was adopted unanimously with a whoop and Chairman Franks ordered Secretary Bennett, in charge of the headquarters, to remove the pictures,
and they will be promptly consigned to the dump in the basement.

To fill vacancies in the office of Elector, Charles T. Ballard, of Louisville, in the Fifth, and E. G.
Heronimus, of Lee county, in the Seventh district, were unanimously elected. In the case of P. D. Black,
the Republican Elector of the Eleventh district, who it was reported had accepted the same place on the
"Bull Moose" ticket, the secretary of the State Central Committee was directed to ascertain the facts. Mr.
Ballard takes the place of Marshall Bullitt, who resigned to become Solicitor General of the United States, and Mr. Heronimus succeeds T. W. Parrish, who was recently appointed Postmaster at Midway.

Col. John W. McCulloch, of Owensboro, Republican National Committee-man for Kentucky and also a member of the State Central Committee, offered a resolution intended to discipline the State, county, district and precinct Republican organizations of the State by purging
all the committees of persons with "Bull Moose" tendencies. His plan is to prefer charges against all persons holding official positions on the party organization and that unless the "Bull Moosers" under suspension resign, that they be kicked off the committees.

John P. Haswell, of the Fourth district, agreed with Col. McCulloch, but he wanted incorporated in the resolution a clause giving those who vote the "Bull Moose" ticket a chance to come back to the Republican party after "Roosevelt is dead and buried politically." Col. Mc-Culloch accepted Mr. Haswell's view and said that his resolution was only intended for "Bull Moosers"
and "insurgents" who occupy places on the party committees.

Col. McCulloch said he was willing to "keep the doors open until judgment day for all the erring brethren," but that he was opposed to any enemy of the Republican party occupying official position in the party organization.

The appeal of the case of J. H.
Swope, of Danville, against J. K.
Tunis, of Danville, involving the chairmanship of Boyle county, was discussed, it developing that Mr.
Swope had joined the "Bull Moose"
movement and was now attending the "Progressive" national convention in Chicago as a delegate for the Eighth district.

On motion of Charles L. Scholl, of Louisville, Secretary Bennett was directed to have the name of Cleo M. Barnett, of Hartford, removed from the official stationery
of the Republican State Campaign Committee as a member of the Finance Committee and to notify Col.
Barnett to return to the Republican headquarters any funds he may have collected since uniting with the "Bull Moose" movement.

Bradley in Favor of Putting the Moosers Out.

Washington, Aug. 10.—The action of Kentucky's Republican State Central Committee, in adopting a resolution at Louisville recently reading out of the Republican party all Kentuckians who had "turned Progressive," was heartily indorsed to-day by Senator Bradley. "They did perfectly right,"
said the Senator. "Nobody has any right in the Republican party who is not a Republican. I am very glad the action was taken."

The consensus of opinion of Kentucky politicians here is that Representative Caleb Powers has got himself into a bad hole. Just how he can extricate himself, now that Col. Roosevelt has advocated his defeat, and since he has excited the displeasure of Senator Bradley and President Taft—as witness their figgering Powers in post-office appointments—is a problem that the Eleventh District Congressman will have to work out alone.

Senator Bradley will not discuss the Eleventh District Congressional situation for publication, but he is known to be decidedly displeased
with the general course pursued by Powers in bewailing the necessity of supporting Taft, and at the same time making overtures to the "Bull Moosers."

Senator Bradley does not know
just when he will be able to pitch
into the Kentucky campaign.

WOODROW WILSON AND FOREIGN IMMIGRATION

Some Republican newspapers are trying to make it appear that Gov.
Wilson is a foe to immigration, using a certain statement in one of the books he wrote as the basis for their charges. In the book in question Dr. Wilson deplored the practice, in use at the time he wrote the book, of certain trans-Atlantic steamship companies in artificially stimulating immigration from Southern Europe. "These steamship companies got out huge advertisements and posters, setting forth
that every man who came to America would be given a free farm and a good job, and other ridiculous promises," Gov. Wilson wrote that this had the effect of bringing many people here who were not in a position to make a success in this country, and who would have been better off at home.

Gov. Wilson is not opposed to immigration. He wants this country to continue to be a haven for the oppressed peoples of Europe, but he wants sane and reasonable regulations, such as at present prevail.
He doesn't want steamship companies to hold out false promises to prospective immigrants, and it is significant that practically all of the foreign newspapers published in this country are in accord with his views.

The Trials of a Traveler.

"I am a traveling salesman," writes E. E. Youngs, E. Berkshire, Vt., "and was often troubled with constipation and indigestion till I began to use Dr. King's New Life Pills, which I have found an excellent remedy." For all stomach, liver or kidney troubles they are unequaled. Only 25 cents at James H. Williams.

A 20-PER CENT DIVIDEND ON THE COMMON STOCK

New York, Aug. 9.—The American Tobacco Company announced to-day that a dividend of 20 per cent of the common stock will be paid on September 3 to the holders of check cards of August 15. The funds of the dividends, it was explained, were realized by the sales of one-half of the company's holding of the American Tobacco stock, about one-half of its holdings of "an ordinary share" of the Imperial Tobacco Company, and all of its holdings in the United Cigar stores funds. The extra dividend was an indirect result of the dissolution of the Tobacco Trust.

A vast amount of ill health is due to impaired digestion. When the stomach fails to perform its functions properly, the whole system becomes deranged. A few doses of Chamberlain's Tablets is all you need. They will strengthen

KENTUCKY GAME LAWS AND THE OPEN SEASONS

Of Same—Substance of the New State Fish and Game Law.

In order that no one need be mistaken as to the game laws, the periods during which it is lawful to shoot in Kentucky are here given: Quail, Pheasant and Wild Turkey—November 15 to January 1.
Rabbit—November 15 to September 15.
Squirrel—November 15 to February 1. Also June 15 to September 15.
Duck and Goose—August 15 to April 1.
Loose—August 1 to February 1.
Woodcock—June 20 to February 1.

Snipe—At any time.
It is unlawful to shoot any thrush, meadow lark, duck, martin, swallow, woodpecker, red or bluebird, catbird, or any other song or insectivorous bird, at anytime.

The substance of the game law
and the way it is enforced are here given:
First—A commission of four appointed to enforce the game laws.
They to appoint a chief game warden at a salary of about $2500 per year and as many additional wardens as necessary. They receive all money from licenses, fines and sales of contraband goods.

Second—Any game warden can arrest a person caught in the act of violating the laws, without a warning, seize his gun, net or other devices, and convey such person or persons before a Magistrate. Possession of an animal or bird within prohibited time is evidence of guilt.
Articles thus seized are turned over to commission and sold or disposed of by them.

Third—County Attorneys, Commonwealth's Attorneys, Sheriffs and Constables are required by law to see that the fish and game laws are enforced.

Fourth—Hunting licenses are issued by the County Clerks between the dates of March 20 and December 15. The cost is $1 per year for a person who has been a bona fide resident of the State for a year and $15 for non-residents.

Fifth—Persons may hunt on their own land or the adjoining neighbor's land without license.

Sixth—The line for hunting without license or buying your license to another is not less than $25 or more than $100, or jail sentence.

Seventh—You are not allowed to shoot, hunt or fish on enclosed grounds without consent of owner.
Violators are subject to fine of $10
to $25 for trespassing.

Eighth—It is unlawful to dynamite, seine, trap or catch fish with any device other than hook and line, except seines 10x4 feet, or smaller, are allowed for catching minnows for bait. This does not apply to the two border streams—the Ohio and Big Sandy rivers.
Violators subject to fine of from Victims to stomach, liver and kid-

backache, nervousness, headache,

like that, as T. D. Peebles, Henry,

FRAIL LITTLE CRAFT CROSSED BROAD OCEAN

Motorboat Detroit Was In Many Perils During Long Sea Voyage.

Queenstown, Aug. 9.—The thirty-five-foot motorboat, Detroit, under command of Capt. Thomas Fleming Day, of New York, arrived here at 8:30 o'clock to-night after a voyage from New Rochelle, N.
Y., which occupied nearly twenty-four and a-half days. This was the second leg of the contemplated trip
of the motorboat from Detroit, Mich., to St. Petersburg.

The voyagers were welcomed by great crowds of people, the chairman of the Harbor Board, the president of the town council and other officials, who extended their congratulations to Capt. Day. In an interview the captain declared that he was never in a better boat.

Capt. Day said he proved the feasibility of a motorboat race from New York to Europe and he believed that a cup for such an event
would be offered at an early date.
The Detroit will remain here for a few days and will proceed for Coves and thence for St. Petersburg by way of the English Channel and the North and Baltic seas.
The crew of the Detroit are all well,
but suffered from stiff limbs, owing to the cramped space. The little craft encountered terrible weather and a succession of gales with high seas. She was obliged to heave to nine or ten times and pitched and rolled tremendously.

On one occasion the gasoline took fire in the engine room and was extinguished with some difficulty. The fresh water turned foul and thirst was one of the burdens they had to bear.

Mr. W. S. Gunsalus, a farmer living near Fleming, Pa., says he has used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in his family for fourteen years, and that he has found it to be an excellent remedy, and takes pleasure in recommending it. For sale by all dealers.

Dog Faithful When Dying.

Forgetting his own pain, Clarence Whitney, 5 years old, inquired
anxiously about his pet dog,
Spot, that went down with him
when the wheels of an automobile struck the lad on Tuesday morning. The dog, when it saw its young master in danger, ran up to him and tugged at his trousers just as the automobile struck them.

Both were run over. The dog was killed and Clarence was bruised.
There was a spark of life in the dog after the accident, and it tried to raise itself and lick the hand of the man who picked the boy up.—[Cincinnati Telegram to New York Tribune.

Are Ever at War.

There are two things everlasting-ly at war, Joy and piles. But Buck-swelling. It gives comfort, invites

joy. Greatest healer of burns, boils, ulcers, cuts, bruises, eczema, scalds,

HIGHEST AND LOWEST STATES OF THE UNION

Almost everybody knows which is the smallest and which is the largest State in the Union, but how many know which is the lowest and which is the highest? According to the measurements and calculations made by the United States Geological Survey, Delaware is the lowest State; its elevation above sea level averaging only 60 feet. Colorado is the highest, averaging 6,-

800 feet above the sea, while Wyoming is a close second, only 100 feet lower than Colorado. In minimum elevation, Florida and Louisiana dispute for second place after Delaware, their average elevation being, for each, 100 feet. Taking the United States as a whole, our country lies slightly above the average elevation of the land of the globe.

CLERGYMEN'S SALARIES ARE MUCH TOO SMALL

A Bishop is on record as saying that a clergyman's salary ought never to be less than $1,000 per year. If the clergyman is married,
the minimum should be 1,200.
It seems a modest ideal.

One thousand dollars a year is a little less than $20 per week.
Milk drivers in Chicago get $23
per week, with a bonus on sales.

Drivers of beer wagons get from $20 to $25 a week.

At the time the pressmen struck on the Chicago papers they were getting wages ranging from $25 to $45 per week, and there has been no attempt to reduce that scale.

But to the clergyman a minimum salary of $1,000 per year seems almost too good to ever be true. It is not so long ago that a responsible church authority declared the average salary of the clergymen of Wisconsin was only $700 per year.

This was the average, mark you,
not the minimum, and to get that average a good many $5,000 salaries were included in the total.—

Saw Through the Scheme.

In a recent election in a little town of Northwest Arkansas, one of the candidates for city marshal received only five votes out of some 500 cast. He took his defeat very much to heart and had many bitter things to say of the "political ring"
that he claimed had brought about his defeat.

To a friend who was sympathizing with him he unburdened himself. "They think I ain't on to their little game," he said. "But I know why they worked and voted against me. They didn't want me to be city marshal. That's why."

Granulated Sore Eyes Cured.

"For twenty years I suffered from a bad case of granulated sore eyes," says Martin Lloyd of Henrietta, Ky. "In February, 1903, a gentleman asked me to try Chamberlain's Salve. I bought one box and used about two-thirds of it and my eyes have not given me any trouble
since." This salve is for sale by all

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Mandy's Reply.

Mandy was a good-looking young colored girl and had many admirers. Her mistress often lectured her on behaving with propriety.
One evening the mistress, going into the kitchen, was surprised to find a strange darkey with his arm around Mandy's waist.

"Why, Mandy," said the mistress indignantly, "tell that man to take his arm from around your waist."

"Tell him yo'self," said Mandy, haughtily. "He's a puffed stranger
to me."

If urinary trouble set in,
Perhaps your kidneys are "in a bad way."

Don't delay—use Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here is good evidence of their worth:

Mrs. W. N. Bartlett, 620 Triplett St., Owensboro, Ky., says:

"Several years ago I used Doan's Kidney Pills and cannot say too much in their praise. For a long time I had nearly every symptom of kidney disease. My back ached terribly and at night I did not sleep well. During the day I was nervous and in bed all the time.
My feet became swollen and I knew I required a good remedy to cure me. I had often heard Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended,

ROOSEVELT AND JOHNSON CHOSEN

To Head New "Progressive Party" Ticket.

SESSION ENDS WITH SINGING

New Offshoot of Republican Party Starts Out With Much Ado.

NEW YORK NEGRO TO FRONT

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers" and the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," the delegates to the first National Convention of the new Progressive party to-night acclaimed Col. Theodore Roosevelt, of New York, as its candidate for President and Gov. Willam W. Johnson, of California, as its choice for Vice President.

Marking a new departure in the proceedings of national conventions
the two candidates immediately were informally notified of their nomination, and in the midst of deafening cheers, appeared before the delegates to voice their acceptance and to pledge their best efforts to the coming campaign.

For several long hours during the afternoon and early evening the big throng in the "Coliseum" had listened to a flow of oratory in nominating and seconding speeches
in which the dominant note expressed was the belief that victory would come to the new party in the November elections. Raymond Robbins, of Illinois, pledged a 100,000 majority for the National ticket in Illinois, and Clifford Pinchot predicted a 300,000 majority for Col.
Roosevelt and Gov. Johnson in his home State of Pennsylvania. These statements were cheered to the echo.

The party formally christened itself, "The Progressive party," leaving out the prefix "National,"
by which it has heretofore been known, but provision was made for the recognition of "real" Progressives in any of the States by whatever name they should be locally designated because of State laws.

The convention adjourned at 7:24 p. m., with the delegates singing the "doxology" in lusty voice.
During the three days it was in session there was not a single roll-call nor a ballot taken. The delegates asked no such formalities either in placing their candidates in nomination or in voting for them. There was not a note of opposition either to Col. Roosevelt or Gov. Johnson.
The delay in nominating them was due to the large number of seconding speeches allowed.

As has always been the case in national political conventions, the bulk of the work of the Progressive gathering was carried on in the committees. The only semblance of a conflict of opinion on the floor was a brief debate to-day as to whether or not an hour's recess should be taken. The point was not material, but, as one delegate expressed it, "we just had to fight about something to make it a regular convention."

There was a sharp discussion,
however, in several of the committee meetings, and no little difficulty in agreeing upon the platform as finally adopted. Col. Roosevelt worked with the subcommittee in charge of the platform until late this afternoon, going over their work of the two previous days and nights and vigorously helping to mold the draft which at last proved acceptable to him. The platform
did not take up the negro question.

In this connection one of the interesting seconding speeches of the day was that of F. R. Gleed, of New York, a negro. Gleed declared that the negroes had faith in the new party; faith that it would do all in its power to right the wrongs of the race.

"We stand by the platform," he said. "We stand by Col. Roosevelt's letter; we stand by his speech. And as we stood by him at San Juan Hill, so we will stand by him in November and fight for victory."

Miss Jane Addams, of Hull House, Chicago, was among those who seconded Col. Roosevelt, and she was enthusiastically greeted.
The new party formally placed itself on record as favoring equal surfrage, and further recognized the suffragette movement by providing for four women members at large on the National Committee.

One of the most common ail-

HOW THE GREAT TRUSTS FATTEN

Under Continued System of Protection

AND DESPITE SHERMAN LAW

It Is False to Say They Lower Prices, Says Editor of Moody's Magazine.

TARIFF THE CAUSE OF IT ALL

Notwithstanding the so-called trust prosecutions and the enforcement of the Sherman law, the industrial combinations have kept on increasing in size and number until their total capitalization is more than $8,000,000,000, so it is announced by John Moody, editor of Moody's Magazine, a financial monthly.

"Moreover," adds he, "this astonishing aggregate does not include industrial concerns which are not trusts. There are thousands of manufacturing concerns enjoying the benefits of the tariff which cannot be included, strictly speaking, in any list of trusts. The Government's Federal Corporation Tax report for 1911 shows that the total capitalization represented by industrial concerns was about $26,000,000,000. This includes the many close corporations, concerns of small capital which while 'industrial' are not trusts in the ordinary understanding of the term."

Mr. Moody says the evidence is clear that there is no truth in the idea that trusts lower prices.

"Industrial combinations, in the great majority of cases," he goes on, "have been found primarily for the purpose of controlling or advancing prices to the consumer. While the theory has been persistently urged for many years that the main purpose of combination was to reduce producing and operating costs, and thus increase profits without the advancement of prices, the records shown during the entire trust era go to prove that such has not been the case. The great enlargement in profits has for the most part been accomplished by price advances and not by cost curtailment."

Mr. Moody's idea is that a protective tariff, particularly the Dingley tariff, and not any natural or evolutionary tendency toward business centralization, is to blame for the growth of the trusts.

"At the end of 1902," he says, "there was a widely held theory that the trend toward industrial consolidation had reached its limit. Subsequent events, however, have proved the unsoundness of this idea. For steadily, throughout every year of the past decade, trust capitalization has continued to increase. By the end of 1903, the year in which Theodore Roosevelt began his second administration, the figure had risen to $6,843,891,760, and in the year when Mr. Taft entered the White House, a further expansion to $7,560,004,000 was shown. And now, with Mr. Taft closing his term, we note that, notwithstanding the so-called trust prosecutions and the enforcement of the Sherman law, the total industrial trust capitalization has reached the astounding total of $8,066,290,861."

"It will be noted that the growth of trusts during Mr. Taft's administration has practically all been accomplished since the enactment of the present Payne Tariff law."

"It is a noteworthy fact that the capital represented by industrial trusts in this country does not reflect, except to partial extent, the investment of money or property. While no exact figures on the subject are obtainable, it is reliably estimated that not more than 25 per cent. of the eight billions of capitalization represents original investment. The remaining 75 per cent. is what is commonly called 'water,' but which is more definitely described as the 'capitalization of earning power.' For industrial trusts, like franchise trusts, railroad trusts, &c., have all adopted the method during the past generation of capitalizing not only the original and current investment in the plants and property, but also the net profits which can be shown."

"Thus it is apparent that in the case of those trusts which have been built up chiefly on tariff benefits, a large part of the net profits shown, and in some cases two-thirds or three-fourths of the profits, are the direct result of the protective legislation which they have received."

The Steel Trust's dividends on its 'water,' Mr. Moody asserts, have been altogether taken out of advances in prices of the trust's products. How Trusts Have Grown With Aid of the Tariff.

The following table shows how the trusts have grown in the last fifteen years:

At Close	Number of Trusts.	Capitalization
1897.....	38	$1,419,428,300
1898.....	48	1,679,582,500
1899.....	88	3,027,910,561
1900.....	98	3,249,001,061
1901.....	117	5,202,350,560
1902.....	136	5,723,741,560
1903.....	145	5,941,042,560
1904.....	153	6,576,918,500
1905.....	163	6,843,891,760
1906.....	178	7,284,750,760
1907.....	186	7,367,745,000
1908.....	194	7,506,004,000
1909.....	200	7,608,426,000
1910.....	206	7,706,621,100
1911.....	224	8,066,290,861

John Moody, a financial authority of note, attributes the development of trusts to the tariff and not to any inherent tendency of the times toward industrial centralization.

FOR $500,000 THE SUGAR KINGS GOT $12,950,000

In Dividends—Nearly All Of This Has Been Made Since 1896.

San Francisco, Aug. 9.—Evidence that ownership of one-half of the common stock of the Western Sugar Refining Company, the John D. and A. B. Spreckels concern of San Francisco, has netted the Havemeyers interests in the American Sugar Refining Company $12,950,000 in dividends in the last twenty-one years, was offered today during the hearing of the Government's suit to dissolve the American Sugar Refining Company under the Sherman law as a combination in restraint of trade.

It was testified that for all but two years of the twenty-one these payments were made on an investment that represented only $500,000; that more than $12,000,000 of the amount has been paid since 1896, and that the first payment of $500,000 was made on Oct. 21, 1891, when the Havemeyers had $1,000,000 invested in the concern.

An official statement of the Western Sugar Refining Company was produced and identified by W. H. Hannam, secretary of the concern. For every dollar the Havemeyers and their associates got, the Spreckels party got a dollar.

In the time elapsing between Oct. 21 and Dec. 27, 1891, dividends to the amount of $1,150,000 were declared and distributed. In 1892 the capital stock was reduced from $2,000,000 to $1,000,000. In accordance with this action $500,000, or half their investment, was refunded to the Havemeyers.

In the year 1898, on Jan. 7, Jan. 17 and Sept. 16, the Western Sugar Refining Company paid $6,000,000, the Havemeyers getting half the yield. The biggest dividend was declared on Jan. 20, 1893, when $2,250,000 was passed around. There were no dividends from 1904 to 1908. On Nov. 20, 1909, another item of $2,000,000 was entered on the dividend record.

NEW BUILDING IS 55 STORIES HIGH

And 775 Feet Above the Street Level.

HAS JUST BEEN COMPLETED

At Cost of $14,000,000—Fifteen Hundred Men Employed in Building.

SOME OF THE "INCIDENTALS"

From the top of the lantern dome on the new Woolworth Building, 775 feet above the street level, the Stars and Stripes will be flung out to the breeze for the first time to-morrow at noon.

The last bit of steel is in place, the last rivet on the titanic structure has been headed, and there remains only the addition of a few thousand tons of terra cotta and a few thousand more of steel trim to make the greatest building in the world a reality.

The men who have made this building's dream an actuality haven't much to say about it. It has been a long, steady, quiet fight for them—the romance and the picturesqueness of it all is too much a part of the instinct that makes them devotees of their hazardous calling for them to really give tongue to it.

But when one of them climbs to the dizzy height of the fifty-fifth story—as yet but a swaying iron skeleton, seemingly miles above the street—an expression of almost reverent satisfaction comes over his face that tells the story well.

Were it not for the hurrying people and the gliding ships, one might imagine the view from that fifty-fifth story to be painted on a great canvas stretched at one's feet.

Even on a hazy day, there are many miles of straight stretching streets, countless buildings that appear modest in dimension even when one knows them to be really giants of their kind, endless car lines, all seemingly laid out with mathematical order and precision. In fact, for the first time does one really get an adequate conception of the tremendousness of New York City.

The vast panorama is beautiful in its polyglot material way—it is New York as some mad, inspired impressionist might have got it on canvas in one wild splash of light and color and shade.

Work for the foundations of the building was begun on November 15, 1910, and the building is expected to be ready for occupancy by an army of 10,000 tenants by January next. The first caisson was begun January 16, 1911, and then in rapid succession the 69 piers of the foundation, the largest of them being 19 feet in diameter, were sunk 125 feet into the ground, and the building was fairly under way.

One thousand five hundred men, drawing an aggregate wage of $3,000 a day, are rushing it to completion under the direction of Architect W. R. Sunter, the personal representative of the designer, Cass Gilbert, and Superintendent of Construction Frank Holmes. These men have put in place 25,000 tons of steel, which required 800 freight cars to haul it; they have set 30,000,000 bricks, 25,000 cubic feet of stone, and 40,000 square feet of terra cotta.

Other figures that are really too big to mean much to the average man are such items as 40 miles of steam pipes, 50 miles of plumbing, 75 miles of electric wiring and 126,000 electric lights—all in one building. There are 900,000 square feet of floor space.

The estimate cost of the building is $14,000,000.—[New York World.]

TEDDY'S COMPLIMENT TO GOVERNOR WILSON

Mr. Roosevelt, in the Outlook, pays a deserved compliment to Governor Wilson when he quotes with approval the following sentiment expressed by the Democratic candidate:

"No one pretends to find a reason for not voting for Mr. Wilson in the character or in the ideals of Mr. Wilson himself. It is plain that he approaches public questions from the point of view of the public interest. What he said the other day in a speech at Atlantic City is a genuine expression of his spirit. He was speaking of an issue raised in that place by lawlessness and corruption, of the need of moral pride, and of the willingness to fight evil at all costs. 'There can be,' said Mr. Wilson, 'so long as we are honest men, no quarrel with any man who deals privately or publicly in a practice that is unrighteous; a man who lays himself, his life, down for that purpose, ought to die more happy than he lived. Life is a little thing. Life lasts only a little while, and if it goes out lighted with the torch of glory, it is better than if it had lasted upon a dull level a thousand years. * * *

That is the test of manhood, it is the test of humanity, and it is the glory and sign of Christianity, that a man will lay down his life for another, no matter what the consequences may be to himself, either in this world or in the next."

"These words, especially as they come from a man just chosen to receive the highest gift in the hands of his party, present a view of public service that should actuate all men in public life. They are a pledge of his own purpose."

"So far as the country at large knows it, Mr. Wilson's record since he entered public life two years ago has not been inconsistent with his lofty purpose or his high character. While in office he has been not only the chief executive of his State, but also the leader of his party in that State."

SIMPLY EAT SEAWEED AND BUST THE TRUSTS

Says Minnesota Woman Professor—A New Plan To Live Cheaply.

San Francisco, Aug. 9.—That the toboggan could be placed under the high cost of living by taking advantage of the unlimited quantity of edible seaweed washed up on the California coast, is the opinion of Miss Josephine E. Tilden, professor of botany and algology at the University of Minnesota, who passed through this city recently on her way to the Islands of the South Seas.

"'Agaie glace,' 'k l p soup,' or any other euphonious designations for dishes derived from the humble seaweed, might serve to popularize this source of food supply, Miss Tilden believes. She points out that the benefits received would be twofold, widening the variety of foods and introducing a food source which could not be cornered and which would furnish wholesome and inexpensive edibles."

"The occidental nations are behind in this regard," explained Miss Tilden. "Japan, for example, has reaped a sturdy fighting nation which shows exceptional capabilities for scientific advancement, on a diet consisting largely of seaweeds. Japanese, Chinese and many other nations have made dainty and healthful dishes from the plants of the sea."

"The properties which make beef or all classes of vegetables valuable are found also in seaweeds. Yet with all our study of the high cost of living, this vital, potential food supply has been totally ignored."

HELAPHONE THE NEWEST DEVICE FOR TELEPHONE

Mr. Everett L. Holbrook, of Chicago, is the inventor of a small instrument, not much larger than a watch, which he calls a helaphone, and when attached to a telephone, makes a conversation with a person 1,000 miles away very easy. In fact it is claimed for it that a whisper can be heard that distance. It has been tested between Chicago and New York, giving results entirely satisfactory. Mr. Holbrook worked on his invention for two years before he had it perfected to the point that he was wholly satisfied that it would stand the severest test.

Mr. Holbrook formerly resided in Owensboro, and his father, Mr. T. B. Holbrook, resides there now.

"I used to be troubled with a weakness peculiar to women," writes Mrs. Anna Jones, of Kenny, Ill. "For nearly a year, I could not walk, without holding my sides. I tried several different doctors, but I grew worse. Finally, our druggist advised Cardui for my complaint. I was so thin, my weight was 115. Now, I weigh 163, and I am never sick. ### DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For President—Gov. Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey.
For Vice President—Gov. Thos.
R. Marshall, of Indiana.

The bluest bull of the whole
bull moose pen is now on the rampage. Look out for him!

It is said the Bull Moose is now going to attempt the wonderful feat
of swallowing the Elephant—tusks, ears, legs and all.

It is averred that Woodrow Wilson never kissed anybody's baby except his own in his life. Good! We will probably have a germ-proof President.

Now that there are three big tickets in the field, the contest will probably shape up about like a game of "cut throat enchre"—two against one.

The Herald feels complimented
that the Richmond Climax appropriates some of our editorial stuff,
because that seems an indication that it was deemed good.

It is said that fairly good liquor
is distilled at the bottom of silos.
But this need not put all the people to building silos, for it is possible
the thing might be overdone.

The Philadelphia Record says:
"The fact that men and women are always running after each other is what makes the human race." And this is true, if it has got a pun in the last line.

The Elizabethtown News thinks
the flea "makes the nearest approach to man." Wrong, Harry.
The humble chigger can give the flea cards and spades and beat him
at this game.

Congressman A. O. Stanley, of Kentucky, deserves much credit for his handling of the steel trust investigation. Stanley is not only a statesman, but a most brainy and active member of Congress.

As might have been expected, the
dear "peepul" came in for much exploitation at Chicago last week. But as a matter of fact, hasn't the scheme all been balled down to the exploitation of the interests of one man?

When we speak of the "Chicago Convention" now, we will have to speak of it in some way to distinguish one from t'other. Teddy was the prize meat at both of 'em, but most anybody ought to be able to tell bull moose from elephant.

It is becoming the custom now-
days, in some quarters, for prisoners to apply for a pardon with poems setting forth their cases.
Several instances have been recorded where the scheme won them their liberty. It is perhaps just a plain case with the pardoning power, after reading the poetry, to either grant the request or increase the sentence.

The negro voter is getting to be more and more a disturbing element in the Republican party. The Moosers tried to shake him at their convention in Chicago last week,
but finally decided to ignore him
and say nothing. The regular Republican organization detests the personality of the darkey but craves his vote. The negro is becoming wiser every day as to his exact standing in political circles.

Sixty years ago the per capita wealth in the United States was $307. To-day it is about $1,300, an increase of nearly 300 per cent.
But who has this wealth—how is it scattered? Do you see any of it among the great common people?
Not much! While the wealth of the country as rated by the per capita process has greatly increased,
the distribution of it has been most unequal. Sixty years ago we had few millionaires and few paupers.

To-day we have too many of both
and both are still on the increase.

The new order of Bull Moose is one of the innovations of the day in fraternity circles. The initiation ceremonies are said to be very rigorous, the proverbial goat being supplanted by a fine healthy speemen of the antlered tribe and the candidate must go three times—
signifying the third term—around the ring without falling off. There are no side degrees, the main
"work" being deemed sufficient.

Senator Bradley is strongly in favor of kicking the Moose out of the Republican party: says they have no business in there, anyway.
And this is the same Bradley who
for a generation has been worshipped as a political god by the very men to whom he is now giving the boot. Even now his absolute control of political patronage in Kentucky is undisputed and his rulings go without regard to the wishes of the people affected by his arbitrary decisions.

The Republican party was good enough for Theodore Roosevelt in a number of past campaigns when he used its prestige and its suffrage
to boost him into office and carry out his personal requests, but now that he cannot continue the chief boss of the whole aggregation, he turns upon it with scorn and would ride his chariot over its most cherished traditions. Such is politics and such is the political career of this noted party smasher.

A certain Owensboro gentleman together with his colleague who manufactures "whiskey without a headache," seem to have been made very dizzy by gazing at the musty
mugs of some of their erstwhile party lieutenants, hanging on the walls of the Republican headquarters in Louisville and ordered them consigned to the junk heap. Perhaps they want to substitute a large size crayon of the skinny old horse
with the negro and jug of liquor which is used to promote the sale of the celebrated Owensboro headache remedy in most all parts of the world.

There is no greater help in the affairs of people in keeping them
abreast of the times than reading
the newspapers. Often you hear people attempting to discuss a matter in a half-posted way which is fully set forth in the local and daily press, if they had but taken the little trouble to notice it. These are days when no one can afford to be ignorant of current events simply for lack of a little reading. It is an easy matter to be posted upon general topics. Newspapers of all kinds are cheap and their purchase price, by the copy or year, is the best investment one can make.

lots, cottages and two-story dwelling.

OLD-FASHIONED BROWN SUGAR HAS DISAPPEARED

Perhaps you have noticed that the old-fashioned brown sugar, like our mothers used to cook with, has practically disappeared from the market.

There is a reason. This reason consists of a "joker" in the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, under what is known as "Dutch Standard No. 16" test.

When this test was fixed it meant the barring out of the old-fashioned brown sugar, cheap and good, and that is why this brand of sugar has disappeared from the market.
Whenever a tariff bill is in the making, the agents of the Sugar Trust are on the ground to see that the "Dutch Standard" is maintained.
They had no difficulty in getting the makers of the Payne-Aldrich tariff
to accede to their wishes.

For the Hair

Are you so fortunate as to be well satisfied with your hair? Is it long enough, thick enough, rich enough?
And your hair does not fall out? Well, well, that is good.
But you may know of some not so fortunate. Then just tell them about Ayer's Hair Vigor. They will surely thank you after using it, if not before. Remember, it does not color the hair. Show the list of ingredients to your doctor. Let him decide their value. He knows.

THE DISCOVERY OF OIL BRINGS BIG LITIGATION

Princeton, Ind., Aug. 9.—As a result of the oil boom in Wabash county, Ill., across the Wabash river from here, a suit has been raised over the ownership of a farm which involves a fortune. It is 100 acres in the very heart of the oil field, where almost fabulous prices are now being paid for leases or on purchases outright. Some time ago George McFarland sold the farm to Jacob Smith, who was to pay $7,- 000 for it in payments of $1,000 a year and the interest. Smith made the first payment, but this year was unable to meet it. He paid the interest, however, and McFarland

agreed to an extension of time on the other, having in meantime given Smith a bond for a deed to the farm. A week ago came the oil strike on the farm adjoining this land. Leasers learned how matters stood, and telling McFarland the land was his, they paid him large lease money and sought possession.
Smith resisted, and the case will be fought out in the courts. The farm is at present valued by oil men at $25,000 to $40,000, it is said."

Miss Zoda will deliver her graduating essay on Abraham Lincoln.

MRS. LOUITLOA LYNCH WAS GRANTED PAROLE

Killed Her Son-in-Law, Ambie Buck—Is Now in Helpless Condition.

The Owensboro Messenger says:
Mrs. Louitloa Lynch, who has been in the penitentiary for the past year, during which time she has been serving time on an indeterminate sentence of from two to twenty-one years for the killing of her son-in-law, Ambie Buck, has been granted a parole and is again in Owensboro. The woman is paralyzed, and for that reason the prison commission has allowed her to be removed to the home of her husband in Daviess county.

It will be remembered that the woman walked a considerable distance to the home of her son-in-law,
carrying a shotgun, at the muzzle
of which she forced her husband and two other male kinsmen to accompany her and that at the home
of Buck, when he came to the door,
she fired the contents of the gun
into his body.

In the trial, which was held after the woman had been confined in the jail for a long period, it was developed that she had a number of peculiarities, if indeed she was not insane at times, and the defense
was made out largely on the idea that at the time of the shooting she was mentally irresponsible for her acts.

The jury that heard the case,
however, determined that she knew what she was doing at the time she fired the shot, and a verdict of guilty was returned, the court finally sentencing her. Since being in the penitentiary, she has been ill
a large part of the time, and her condition has become worse, till
the commission took action and allowed her to return to her home.

MAN'S CLOTHES TORN OFF BY A PLAYFUL CYCLONE

Clarksville, Tenn., Aug. 10.—A storm that passed ten miles south of this city last night blew down a sawmill, several mill houses and all the corn in its path; then struck
the Durham home and blew Charley Durham from his bed through a window. Two miles from there another mill was blown away, and a man named Graves, while running from one house to another, had his clothing torn off. Six miles north of town the lightning struck the house of Albert Woodson, resulting in its destruction by fire.

LOCAL OPTION ELECTION ASKED IN UNION COUNTY

Morganfield, Ky., Aug. 10.—A petition has been filed with the Union County Court asking that an election be called October 5 to determine whether or not intoxicating liquors may be sold in Union county. The county has been "dry" for six years.

A petition in bankruptcy was filed in Louisville, Ky., last Saturday against V. M. Stewart & Co., of Beaver Dam, placing the company in involuntary bankruptcy.

The estimated assets, about $7,000 and estimated liabilities about $10,000. It was thought, however, that a settlement of the affairs could be effected without the formality of the bankruptcy proceedings being gone through. ### TALK ABOUT COMBINING IN THE BLACK PATCH

Independents and Planter's Protective Association Talk of Coalition.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Aug. 9.—Throughout the famous Black Patch, which includes all the counties in this region of Kentucky and Tennessee where the dark types of tobacco are grown, there is the keenest interest in conditions which affect both the Planter's Protective Association and Independent tobacco buyers, and a coalition of these important factors in the trade may be brought about.

Association officials are out in statements that unless a majority of the growers show a sufficient interest in its welfare to sign pledges of membership before September 1, the corporation will probably be dissolved. For two years, owing to the high prices of the loose floors, not more than one-third of the farmers have sold their product through this channel. The association now controls about 32,000 hogsheds, while a few years ago there were 65,000 hogsheds in its pool.

Independent dealers in the region are holding about 7,000 hogsheds for which they paid high prices, and the recent slump in values is causing them great uneasiness. They have lately held a number of conferences with the association managers, who still have about 6,000 hogsheds of the old crop on hand, with a view to pooling their holdings, but the combination has not yet been effected. It is said to be almost assured that the independents will form a new organization. Mainly their hope of realizing profit on the tobacco they control lies in reports throughout the Black Patch that the crop in the field is not only short, but of inferior quality. The independents have 2,500 hogsheds in Hopkinsville warehouses, 2,000 at Mayfield, 1,500 at Clarksville, Tenn., and 1,000 at Paducah.

GOV. MARSHALL'S GRAND TRIBUTE TO HIS MOTHER

A correspondent of the New York Times sends the following excerpt to his paper written by Governor Thomas R. Marshall, of Indiana. A man who entertains such love for his mother and who holds her memory in such sacred remembrance, is the right man to be selected for Vice-President of the United States:

"I think back through the years, the lean and fat, the good and bad ones, to my earliest recollection. I see a woman with an eye that flashes as swift as an arch angel's wings and a mouth that breaks with laughter and hardens at sight of wrong, singing lullabies; a woman who, with hand grasping the unseen hand, walks the brier-bordered paths of life unshamed, unafraid, unharmed. She is clad in garments of beauty for me, and age does not soil them, nor years make them cheap and tawdry. Her tongue is without guile, having never been the messenger of a lie. It is seventeen years since her soul went home to God and her fingers became for me the fingers of an angel, but I have not forgotten all she said. She told me there was a Santa Claus, and I believe her. He brings me no longer drums and fifes. But he still brings to me visions of my mother and the music of that angelic chorus which sang at creation's dawn and at the hour of man's redemption."

Indian Killed on Track.

Near Rochelle, Ill., an Indian went to sleep on a railroad track and was killed by the fast express. He paid for his carelessness with his life. Often it's that way when people neglect coughs and colds. Don't risk your life when prompt use of Dr. King's New Discovery will cure them and so prevent a dangerous throat or lung trouble. "It completely cured me, in a short time, of a terrible cough that followed a severe attack of grip," writes J. R. Watts, Floydada, Tex., "and I regained 15 pounds in weight that I had lost." Quick, safe, reliable and guaranteed. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free at James H. Williams.

4,113 Negroes in Navy.

There are 4,113 negroes in the United States navy, receiving a total yearly salary of $2,168,000. The figures were compiled by Beekman Withrop, Acting Secretary of the Navy, in response to a request from Cyrus F. Adams, Assistant Registrar of the Treasury, who is a negro. It is understood that Mr. Adams wishes to use the information as campaign material to show members of his race that they are being well cared for under the Taft Administration.—[Washington Post.]

"Were all medicines as meritorious as Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, the world would be much better off and the percentage of suffering greatly decreased," writes Lindsay Scott, of Temple, Ind. For sale by all dealers.

POEMS YOU'LL ENJOY.

The Herald's Special Selections.

JUST AS SURE.

Just as sure as you shake things out
And live life right with God,
The things gone wrong will all go right
In the way you have to plod.
Just as sure as you balance accounts,
And set yourself dead straight,
You will find your affairs all right side up.
With nothing to blame on fate.

Now, the best of us in our time and place

Get off the track in a way,
And we yield to the world and flesh
—ah, yes—
To the devil himself, some day.
But the moment comes when we see the glow
Of the right shine clear and whole;

And, oh, how eager we are to turn
And re-establish the soul!

Just as sure as we do it, men,
As we look on the truth's pure face,
And cry to the false gods luring us,
That there is no life but grace—
That instant, full on our hearts
there falls
The balm of a peace unknown,
And all comes right and we find the dark

And the night and gloom have flown.

Just as sure as we stand up straight
As the Lord intended, again;
Just as sure as we catch our breath
And are men with the strength
of men—
Just as sure as we leave the dark
And live life right with God,
The things gone wrong will all come right

Wherever we have to plod.
—[Baltimore Sun.]

THE HOUN' DAWG—WHAT HE WAS GROWLING AT

"Yes," said the returned pilgrim the other day, "Arkansas certainly lives up to its reputation for lean and lanky creatures."

"Last week I was riding along a dusty road, when I came to a cabin set in a clearing. A lean, bony man sat out in front, smoking a cornocob and gazing at invisible things. Two or three long-legged, skinny fowls pecked listlessly about the yard and occasionally a pig built like a pumpkin seed slid between the pickets and went under the house to lie down in the shade."

"Out in the dusty road a lean, rickety dog walked around and around, bristles up, apparently growling at his shadow."

"I went in and got a drink of water. Looking back I saw the dog still going through his peculiar maneuvers."

"'Say,' I said to the native, 'what's the matter with your dog—going mad?'"

"The old man looked over that way."

"Don't see nothing wrong with him," he said.

"But," says I, "look at him! He walks around and around, growling at his shadow!"

"The native looked indifferently at a crawling grasshopper and lost interest again."

"'Stranger,' he said 'that ain't no shadder—that's another dog.'"

A LITTLE SOMETHING TO START SCHEME WITH

The ease with which the "promoter" counts chickens that are not yet laid, appeals to when it does not amuse the business man of conservative methods.

London newspapers are repeating a story told by Mr. Harcourt, Secretary of State for the colonies, of a man who was "something in the city." He approached a rich American with a view to floating a rubber company in British North Borneo. The American was favorably impressed with the scheme.

"How many trees have you?" he asked.

"We have not got any trees," replied the promoter.

"How much land have you?"

"We have no land."

"What, then, have you got?" asked the amazed American.

"I have a bag of seeds," returned the Londoner, composedly.

And many an enthusiastically floated undertaking has not even that!—[Youth's Companion.]

OFFICIAL COUNT GIVES THOMAS 247 MAJORITY

Greenville, Ky., Aug. 9.—In the Congressional primary election for the Third Congressional district T. B. Pannell, who was R. Y. Thomas' campaign manager, has received what are said to be the official returns from every county in the district, as canvassed by the various county election commissioners. The majorities are as follows:

Rhea—Todd, 669; Simpson, 488; Logan, 1,710, making a total of 2,867.

Thomas—Allen, 254; Warren, 641; Edmonson, 85; Butler, 296; Barren, 658; Metcalfe, 211; Muhlenberg, 969, or a total of 3,114. According to these figures, Thomas has a majority of 247. The official vote of Muhlenberg county was: Thomas, 1,281; Rhea, 312.

On the Republican ticket, George Baker received 283 votes in Muhlenberg, and Thurman Dixon, 52, but Dixon carried all the rest of the counties of the district, which gave him the nomination on the Republican ticket. The Bull Moose followers of this county claim that the vote for Dixon and Baker represents the Taft strength here, and are rejoicing.

INDEX TO INTOXICATION IN MOONSHINE COUNTRY

The late George B. Cluett believed profoundly in temperance.

Mr. Cluett, at a temperance dinner, once said:

"In moonshine districts, where the whisky looks like water and is drunk like water, strange ideas prevail as to what intoxication really is."

"In a moonshine village one Saturday afternoon a man lay in the broiling sun in the middle of the road with an empty bottle by his side."

"'He's drunk; lock him up,' the Sheriff said."

"But a woman interposed hastily."

"'No, he hain't drunk,' she said. 'I jest seen his fingers move.'"

Funny, Isn't It?

If you call a man "levelheaded" he is pleased; if you call him a "flathead" he'll get mad.

Speak of a woman as being "kittenish" or you will flatter her; speak of her as being "cattish" and you've made a lifelong enemy.

Tell a woman she has the artistic temperament and you have made a friend; tell her she uses paint with discretion and she'll cut you off her visiting list.

Tell a man he's got a great head and he admires your judgment; tell him he's got the big head and he gets mad.

TWO GOLDEN DAYS.

By Robert J. Burdette

There are two days of the week upon which and about which I never worry. Two care-free days, kept sacredly free from fear and apprehension.

One of these days is yesterday. Yesterday, with all its cares and frets, with all its pains and aches, all its faults, its mistakes and blunders, has passed forever beyond the reach of my recall. I cannot undo an act that I wrought; I cannot unsay a word that I said on yesterday.

All that it holds of my life, of wrongs, regret and sorrow, is in the hands of the Mighty Love that can bring honey out of the rock, and sweet waters out of the bitterest desert—the Love that can make the wrong things right, that can turn weeping into laughter, that can give beauty for ashes, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness, joy of the morning for the woe of the night.

Save for the beautiful memories, sweet and tender, that linger like the perfume of roses in the heart of the day that is gone, I have nothing to do with yesterday. It was mine; it is now God's.

And the other day I do not worry about is to-morrow. To-morrow, with all its possible adversities, its burdens, its perils, its large promise and poor performance, its failures and mistakes, is as far beyond the reach of my mastery as its dead sister, yesterday. It is a day of God's. It's sun will rise in roseate splendor, or behind a mask of weeping clouds. But it will rise. Until then, the same 'love and patience that held yesterday will hold to-morrow, shining with tender promise into the heart of to-day. I have no possession in that unborn day of grace. All else is in the safe keeping of the Infinite Love that holds for me the treasure of yesterday. The Love that is higher than the stars, wider than the skies, deeper than the seas. To-morrow—it is God's day. It will be mine.

There is left for myself, then, but one day of the week—to-day. Any man can fight the battles of to-day. Any woman can carry the burdens of just one day. Any man can resist the temptations of to-day. O friends, it is only when to the burdens and cares of to-day, carefully measured out to us by the Infinite Wisdom and Might that gives with them the promise, "As thy day, so shall thy strength be," we willfully add the burdens of those two awful eternities—yesterday and to-morrow—such burdens as only the mighty God can sustain—that we break down. It isn't the experience of to-day that drives men mad. It is the remorse for something that happened yesterday, the dread of what to-morrow may disclose.

These are God's Days. Leave them with Him.

Therefore, I think, and I do, and I journey but one day at a time. That is the easy day. That is the man's day. Nay, rather, that is our day—God's and mine. And while faithfully and dutifully I run my course, and work my appointed task on that day of ours, God the Almighty and the All-loving takes care of yesterday and to-morrow.

CONSOLIDATED SCHOOLS

The most far-reaching and advanced step ever taken by educational circles in Kentucky is looking toward the establishment of consolidated schools in Daviess and Warren counties. The experiment once tried, there will be little danger of retrograding to old-time conditions. Let Kentucky have no more of those one-room frame schoolhouses.

It is proposed to divide Warren county into four districts. At a central location in each district, a consolidated school is to be erected that will cost between $15,000 and $25,000. Several minor grades and a four-year high school course are to be comprehended in the curriculum. It is the intention of those in charge of the plan to at least ten acres of ground in connection with the school where practical instruction in agriculture may be obtained. All praise to John B. McFerran, who is the father of the plan!—[Frankfort State Journal.]

SOME NOBLE PRINCIPLES SPLENDIDLY SET FORTH

In this day of foolish talk and prattle, the following card, which has been issued by the Chase National Bank of New York, contains thoughts that should rest in the minds of every American:

A PATRIOTIC CREED.

"We believe in our country—the United States of America. We believe in her constitution, her laws, her institutions and the principles for which she stands. We believe in her vast resources, her great possibilities—yes, more, her wonderful certainties."

"We believe in the American people, their genius, their brain and their brawn. We believe in their honesty, their integrity, and dependability. We believe that nothing can stand in the way of their commercial advancement and prosperity."

"We believe that what are termed 'times of business depression' are but periods of preparation for greater and more pronounced commercial successes."

"And we believe that in our country are being worked out great problems, the solution of which will be for the benefit of all mankind."

Circus Yarns.

"Rain? Say, it always rains when a circus comes to town."

"Ain't it the truth!"

"I remember once when the circus came to our town—"

"Back in Punkville, er?"

"Back in Punkville. Well, that day it rained so hard that the lot the circus camped on was a 'quagmire for a solid month. I wouldn't exaggerate. One month.'"

"That ain't nothing, man. The last time the circus came to our town it rained so hard that there has been good fishing on the spot ever since."

Warning Cards.

The Kentucky law lately passed in regard to the abolishment of the public drinking cup, requires that all stores, hotels, boarding houses, depots and other public places where drinking water is usually kept, shall keep a large card, with the law printed thereon, posted close by said drinking water. The Herald is prepared to furnish these cards at ten cents apiece, by mail or by hand. Better keep within the bounds of the law.

Legless Pitcher a Wonder.

Wilmington has the champion legless pitcher. William Salter, a young man who lost both of his legs and uses artificial limbs, yesterday pitched for the Christiana Athletic Club and about out the Central Club, 8 to 0. He held his opponents to three hits and struck out 10 batsmen. He is able to run the bases and is the best player on the Christiana team.—[Wilmington (Del.) Cor. Baltimore Sun.]

Tedious Tasks.

A couple of wayfarers stood for an hour or more in front of a market, watching employes clean "sh."

"Ain't that the limit?" exclaimed one. "Can you think of anything worse than a job like that?"

"Sure I can," the other replied. "That ain't half as bad as scaling the Alps."

BRAINY PAUPERS.

Brilliant Inventors Who Reaped
Pitiful Rewards.

DIED IN POVERTY AND WANT.

Some Men of Genius Who Were Doomed to End Their Days in Obscurity.
While Their Fruitful Ideas Made Millions and Fame For Others.

Now and again a man is born whose brain fairly bubbles with inventive genius. New ideas stream from him and all branches of science are mastered with hardly an effort.

Such was Frederick William Martino, one of those many brilliant Italians who left their native land to seek fortune in a foreign country.

Martino came to England, and his name is most familiar from the Martin-Henry ride, the breechblock of which was one of his numerous inventions.

It is an irony of fate that Martino's name should go down to posterity solely through a warlike invention which he himself thought little of when his greatest work was done in the cause of peace, for Martino was the discoverer of the process for converting basic slag into manure, a discovery which has put millions into the pockets of German manufacturers, but from which he himself, it is stated, never reaped a penny.

The fluted rib for umbrellas, a new process for the extraction of nickel from its ore, a new development of platinoid—immensely important in electric work—and a brilliant invention for the reduction of gold ore, these are only a few of Martino's discoveries. And yet he was so lacking in business capacity that in spite of his extraordinary output of valuable ideas he died at Glasgow in 1903 a comparatively poor and obscure man, while dozens of others have been made rich by his genius.

In 1890 the chemist Lenoir patented a motor driven by an explosive mixture of air and gas. He used electricity obtained from a battery and a Ruhmkorff coil, actuating a sparking plug very similar to that in use in the modern motor. The system of valves by means of which the suction of the piston drew in the charge of gas for the next explosion was also designed by Lenoir.

In 1862 he actually produced a car which, if crude, was similar in all respects to that in use today, save that he employed coal gas instead of petrol and that he actually drove himself through the streets of Paris.

Yet for reasons similar to those which caused the failure of Martino he never received the reward of his genius, and it was left for Daimler, nearly thirty years later, to produce the first of the practicable automobiles.

Lenoir died in 1900, poor and unknown.

Three years later, in 1903, the life of George Shergold came to an end in Gloucester workhouse. Shergold, originally a shoemaker, was the inventor of the safety bicycle. He built a machine of this order in the year 1875, the front wheel of which was twenty-seven inches and the rear wheel some thirty-one inches in diameter.

In 1900, when it first became generally known that the man whose invention had made millions for others was as poor as when he had cobbed shoes, a public subscription was raised, and for some time an allowance of 5 shillings a week was made to Shergold. But the funds became exhausted, and poor Shergold ended his life in the workhouse.

How many people have ever even heard of Scheele? Yet this poor Swedish chemist was perhaps the greatest discoverer of facts that the world has ever known.

We always hear in England that Priestley was the discoverer of oxygen. Yet Scheele made this most important of all chemical discoveries simultaneously with Priestley. And it was Scheele who discovered chlorine gas. Chlorine is perhaps the most important of all gases in commercial chemistry. It is the great bleacher that gives us white linen or white straw hats. It is also the best disinfectant known. It is essential to the manufacture of the great pain killer, chloroform, and it is used extensively for the extraction of gold from its ores.

Chlorine's value to the world has been incalculable, yet Scheele, the man who discovered it, lived hungry and died a pauper.

Professor Gore died a comparatively poor man, yet Gore was the inventor of the modern safety match, of the method of electrodeposition commonly known as electroplating and of many other processes which have put millions into the pockets of manufacturers. Gore's book, "Electrometallurgy," published in 1870, is still a standard work on the subject.—London Answers.

Value of Cinders.

A few years ago great heaps of cinders piled up, often being dumped into low places where new earth was needed. Manufacturing concerns were glad to get rid of the accumulations. But now the cinders are in great demand for use in the foundation for cement and concrete work. They form a perfect drainage material, and it has been found that frost acts very lightly on them. Furthermore, concrete work in which cinders are used is said to be of extreme durability. When cinders are ground and mixed with cement the mass becomes very hard.

The road to success is as easy as the road to ruin.—Benjamin Franklin.

THEIR LAST HANDCLASP.

The Final Meeting of Charles A. Dana
and Jacob Riis.

I like to think of my last meeting with Charles A. Dana, the "old chief," as he was always called in the office. In all the years I was on the Sun I do not think I had spoken with him a half dozen times. When he wanted anything of me personally his orders were very brief and to the point. It was generally something—a report to be dictated or the story of some social experiment—which showed me that in his heart he was faithful to his early love. He had been in his youth, as everybody knows, an enthusiastic reformer, a member of the Brook Farm community. But if he thought I saw he let no sign escape him. He hated shams. Perhaps I was on trial all the time. If so I believe that he meant to tell me in that last handshake that he had not found me wanting. It was on the stairs in the Sun office that we met. I was going up; he was coming down—going home to die. He knew it. In me there was no suspicion of the truth when I came upon him at the turn of the stairs, stumbling along in a way very unlike the usual springy step of the old chief. I hardly knew him when he passed, but as he turned and held out his hand I saw that it was Mr. Dana, looking somehow older than I had ever seen him and changed. I took off my hat, and we shook hands.

"Well," he said, "have you reformed everything to suit you, straightened out every kink in town?"

"Pretty nearly," I said, falling into his tone of banter, "all except the Sun office. That is left yet and as bad as ever."

"Ha!" he laughed. "You come on. We are ready for you. Come right along!" And with another hearty handshake he was gone. He never saw the Sun office again.

It was the only time he had ever held out his hand to me after that first meeting of ours when I was a lonely lad, nearly thirty years before. That time there was a dollar in it, and I spurned it. This time I like to believe his heart was in it. And I took it gladly and gratefully.—Jacob A. Riis. "The Making of an American."

THE LAND OF CHEESE.

Switzerland Has the Proud Honor of Deserving This Title.

Cheese, although an important product of our dairy farms and a reasonably popular article of diet in the United States, has never held quite the position with us given it in some European countries.

English and Germans are far greater consumers of cheese than we, while both are surpassed by Norwegians. But above all Switzerland is the land of cheese. On more than one occasion travelers have dwelt upon the functions, social and sentimental as well as astronomical, performed by the cheese of Zermatt—that remarkable cheese which is so hard that it has to be scraped with a knife or cleft with an ax.

It is said by one authority that the patrician rank of a Swiss family in that part of the confederation is estimated by the age of its cheese, and the greater the respect due to or the affection for a guest the older is the cheese set before him. There are said to be families who own cheese that dates back to the time of the first French revolution, which is served only on solemn occasions, such as christenings, weddings or funerals.

There are in each pantry at least as many cheeses as there are boys and girls in the family, for at the birth of every child a cheese is made, which is named after the newcomer and is first cut into his or her wedding day, on which festive occasion all guests partake of a piece of the groom's and the bride's cheeses in order to secure for them all earthly thrift and happiness. The rest is served as a token of friendly souvenir and heartfelt mourning after the tomb has closed over his or her mundane career.—New York Tribune.

New Mexico's Early Name.

What a pity the name "New Mexico" cannot be changed to "Cibola!" (Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California—Cibola!) How well these would sound in the already musical roll call of the states! Such was the principal name, and the country was known as the "Land of the Seven Golden Cities of Cibola" after Vaca brought the first reports of its marvels into Mexico. The sensitive imaginations of the Spaniards, whetted by the tales told by Vaca and inspired to new lights by an occasional Indian's romantic, pictured seven noble cities, each as large and as beautiful as the City of Mexico. Fanciful painted mirages wherein were gold and silver and rare gems without limit.—D. H. MacAdam in Metropolitan Magazine.

Enlightening the Minister.

"We are going to have pie for dinner," said Bobby to the minister.

"Indeed!" laughed the clergyman, amused at the little boy's artlessness. "And what kind of pie, Bobby?"

"It's a new kind. Ma was talking this morning about bringing you to dinner so often, and she said he didn't care what she thought, and ma said she'd make him eat humble pie before the day was over, and I suppose we're going to have it for dinner."

In the Future.

Magistrate—What! Drunk again? When you were here last time you promised to sign the pledge. Prisoner—Well, I'm going to, yer honor, just as soon as I learn to write. I've been takin' lessons, but I haven't made much progress yet.—Toledo Blade.

HE HAD HIS HAIR CUT.

And It Took a Long, Long Time to Find Out by Whom.

One of the most elaborate and sustained practical jokes on record was that played on J. M. Langford—commonly known as "Joe"—some fifty years ago. According to the version given in the "Life of Sir William Russell," Langford was in the Garrick club in London when Albert Smith accosted him: "Hello, Joe! Who has cut your hair?" Joe was in a dignified mood and resented the query. "I really don't see," he replied, "how it can interest you who cut my hair." Smith went downstairs and stood in the hall. The next member who came up to the morning room snatched up to Langford with: "I see you've been having your hair cut. Who did it?" Joe very sternly replied, "I can't imagine who you ask me." Then he ordered a glass of sherry and bitters. The waiter brought it and gave a little start of surprise as he presented it with a "Reg pardon, sir! It's along of your 'air, sir; it looks unusual." Joe went to the glass and saw nothing remarkable, but as he was considering his face Charles burst upon him with: "Where on earth did you get your hair cut, my dear Joe?"

Joe could stand it no longer. He went off to his chambers in Raymond's buildings, Ray's inn. Next day he saw an advertisement in the Times: "J. M. L.—Say, who cut it? Was it your own hand or the deed of another? Confess ere it be too late." It was only the first of a series of similar announcements, and the ingenuity of his tormentors devised continual surprises for him. On the day he went down to Chertsey races he saw the walls plastered with enormous posters, yellow and black: "J. M. L.—Once more, who cut it? You must speak." A band of Ethiopian minstrels was furnished with a melody to sing outside Raymond's buildings to the air of "What Are the Wild Waves Saying?" then very popular. And the refrain was:

What are de wild waves saying as dey lap de Waterloo state?
What are dem wild waves saying? Dey say, Who cut Joe's hair?

In despair, Langford went abroad, and when, at Chamonix, he climbed to the Cascade des Pelerins he found plastered in front of him a huge yellow poster bearing the words: "J. M. L.—Confess, reveal, or he forever lost! Who cut it?" Joe's spirit was broken. He sat down and wrote a humble letter to Albert Smith: "I yield, spare me. My hair was cut in St. Martin's court at the barber's on the left hand side. His charge was threepence. I am quite benten."

Her Opportunity.

In an old French joke book is a story to the effect that when at Rome public penances were customary a confessor thought fit to order that one of his female penitents should be flogged. She told her husband, and he volunteered to undergo the penance for her. The wife was present at the flogging, and whenever the confessor's energies flagged she would cry:

"Flog harder, father, for you know I'm a great sinner!"

Not a Scot.

From some unexplained cause the engine attached to a Scottish express once broke down near Y. A worthy quickly put his head out of the window and inquired:

"What on earth's wrong, gaird?"

The guard was cross, for no records could be broken that journey, and testily he replied:

"Well, Scotland, the driver's a countryman of yours, and the beggar has used all the hot water in the boiler to mix grug with."

"Na, na, gaird, the chief's aye a Scot," came the retort, "or he widna trouble wunkle about the water."

He Got There.

A New England bishop was on his way one winter day to fill an episcopal appointment in the lumber country when he ran into a old fashioned Maine blizzard. He had a dozen ulcers before him when it burst, and he was traveling in an old fashioned mountain stage drawn by two wiry horses. They fought about six miles bravely, and then it began to look hopeless. The driver and the bishop were wondering how they and the horses would live through the night when there came a whoop. In a few moments six husky lumberjacks mounted on six northern Maine horses came up to them through the swirl.

"Well, bishop," said the leader, "we was bound you should get through to that meeting if we could help you."

The good bishop was deeply touched at this show of religious zeal and tribute to him and his cause and so expressed himself.

"Yes," replied the man, "we'll get you through. You see, we was paid yesterday, and the boys has made up a thunderin' big pool on whether or not you'd git there. We boys has got a whole month's pay on your end. You'll git there."

He did, and he got half the pool for a new schoolhouse.

What Did He Mean?

At a supper party shortly before the production at the Duke of York's theater in London of Henry Arthur Jones' play, "The Princess' Nose," some one said to the late Sir W. S. Gilbert across the table:

"What do you think of Jones' new title, Gilbert?"

"Don't know what it is," growled Sir William.

"It is quaint to say the least," was the reply. "He calls his piece 'The Princess' Nose.'"

"H'm," grunted Gilbert meditatively; "hope it will run."

MANY GERMAN MINERS

Forty Dead Bodies Recovered
and Many of the Injured Rescued.

Hochum, Germany, Aug. 8.—A mining disaster which imperiled the lives of 650 miners occurred in the Lorraine pit in the vicinity of the village of Gerthe to-day. Many of the men were rescued, but at a late hour this evening it was feared that more than 100 had been killed.

Twenty-five bodies had been recovered and the rescue parties were unable to enter the gallery in which the fire damp explosion occurred, where it was believed from fifty to 100 men were still entombed and had almost certainly perished. A large number of those rescued were suffering from severe injuries and it was expected that many of them could not recover.

The rescue detachments which did such good work at the time of the French disaster at Courrières, near Lens, on March 10, 1906, when 1,239 miners were killed, arrived here early this afternoon, but were unable to penetrate the galleries, owing to the flames and the poisonous gases.

The wives and families of the doomed miners were gathered around the pit month all day, but were unable to learn any details, as the officials of the mine refused information. At 4 o'clock fifteen more bodies had been recovered, making the total known deaths at that hour forty.

The day shift of 650 men had just descended into the workings and were distributing themselves along the various levels when the explosion occurred.

The detachment was heard at the surface and the officials on duty immediately formed rescue parties of the men belonging to the night shift, who rushed back to the pit month together with the villagers.

A LITTLE HISTORY OF
THE HOUSE OF FREE RENT

For more than twenty years the three-story brick house at 26 East 34th street, Covington, has been occupied by several families, and not one of the families has paid rent. All the occupants said Thursday they would have paid the rent, but no one ever came and asked them for it, and likewise, no one ever asked them to move. When one man did move, he did so of his own volition, and then told friends to move in and take his quarters.

More than twenty years ago a friend of Edward Cooper, an expressman, of Covington, was told by a friend that he could move into the house and not have to pay rent. Cooper did so, and reared his family there. He did not occupy the whole house, and he invited another family to share it with him. Two years ago he invited the family of Charles Shumate to move into the house, rent free, provided they would fix the roof. They did so. Later, Cooper's family having left, he moved into one room, and Mrs. Shumate invited her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Shumate, to occupy part of the second floor. Cooper later moved out, and the latter family now occupy the entire second floor. Mrs. Martin Kadenbrook and family of five children occupy the third floor.

"No one ever said anything about rent to us," said Mrs. Shumate Thursday. "About two years ago I saw an advertisement that the house was to be sold by the city for delinquent taxes, giving the owner's name as Delaney, and his residence as Danville, Ky. I do not know whether the house was sold, but no one came to see us about it."—[Covington Post.]

His Quarter.

"I approach you in a worthy cause, Mr. Tremend. We want to raise $100,000; a prominent philanthropist offers to contribute a quarter of it."

"Oh, well," said Mr. Tremend hastily, "I don't mind giving another quarter. Can you change a half?"—[Housekeeper.]

HELPLESS CRIPPLE SUES FOR $25,000 DAMAGES

Backbone Was Broken By Accident in Mine—Negligence Charged.

Suit for the collection of $25,000 damages has been filed in the McLean Circuit Court by the attorneys for Jesse K. Shacklett against the Memphis Mining Company, of Island, McLean county, the plaintiff claiming that he has been rendered a helpless cripple because of the gross carelessness and negligence on the part of the defendant company. The suit is filed by Richard Alexander, of Calloun, and Ben D. Kling and Lavega Clements, of Owensboro.

It is stated in the petition that the plaintiff was, in September, 1911, employed at the mine and was employed to mine coal and to do no other work. He says that he was assigned to work in a certain room, some distance down in the mine and some distance from the entry. He was paid by the ton for the coal that he mined.

He further states that in September of last year he entered one of the mine cars going into the mine, for the purpose of riding from the entry to a point where he was engaged in working, and that after he entered the main entry, the roof over the main entry broke and a great mass of slate, stone and earth fell upon him, breaking, bruising and mauling his head, limbs and body, breaking his backbone and spinal cord and rendering him totally paralyzed at the time and ever since then from his waist line down.

He says that as a result of the injuries he received, he has since been continually confined to his bed, utterly helpless to move the lower part of his body, and that he has been rendered a cripple for the remainder of his life.

He charges the company with gross carelessness and negligence, in that the roof of the mine was not braced or propped so as to make it safe and that the company knew, or could have known, of the unsafe condition of the roof of the mine, but that it was unknown to him. The plaintiff prays for judgment in the sum of $25,000.

The following official order has been received by Capt. DeWeese and compliments the conduct and soldierly manner of the Third Regiment at the encampment at Anniston, Ala.

Headquarters 3d Inf., K. N. G., Hopkinsville, Ky., August 6, 1912. General Orders No. 4.

It is with pride and pleasure that the commanding officer desires to announce to the Regiment that the recent tour of duty at Anniston, Ala., July 25 to August 5, was the most successful in the history of the regiment. The officers of the regular army attached to this regiment, as Inspector-Instructors, commend you for the prompt and efficient manner in which your work was done, and especially for the soldierly and gentlemanly conduct while in camp or at liberty in the city of Anniston. The fact that the guardhouse was empty and not a single man under arrest during the tour is significant of the effort put forth.

The citizens of your home stations should be proud of you, and the Commonwealth of Kentucky should be equally proud of the result of this tour. You have upheld the honor of the State and the Commanding Officer desires that every officer and man of the regiment know that he deeply appreciates the splendid work and conduct.

By order of Colonel Henry.
A. G. CHAPMAN, Capt. & Adj.

JOHN S. RHEA PREPARES TO CONTEST NOMINATION

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 12.—Claiming that gross frauds were practiced in the primary, John S. Rhea, of Logan county, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Third district, at the recent State-wide primary, has determined to contest the nomination which will be awarded to Congressman R. Y. Thomas, Jr., of Muhlenberg county. On the fact of the returns Thomas won by 247 majority. Mr. Rhea alleges that many irregularities were practiced in the primary and that he has been informed that fraud was perpetrated during the voting and at the count. He says that he is satisfied that he won the nomination fairly and that his contention will be borne out when the contest is heard. The contest will be heard by the State Board of Election Commissioners.

DRILL THROUGH FLOOR AND GET MUCH IN CASH

New York, Aug. 10.—Tunneling through the ceiling of a basement room, and then cutting a hole through the five-eighths-inch steel floor of the vault of a bank in the lower part of New York, a band of robbers secured $72,000 in bills of large denominations, and missed $3,000,000 more in cash.

Though the robbery was committed more than two months ago, it became public to-day for the first time. An impenetrable cloak of mystery has been thrown around the crime, and directors of the bank, the names of which have not been revealed, have made up the loss from their personal resources. News of the robbery was withheld from police and newspapers because the directors feared a run on the bank.

The robbers gained access to the building through the coal hole, followed the chute to the engine room and thence to an unused room adjoining, where they erected a scaffold to reach the ceiling about fifteen feet high.

They cut a hole large enough to admit a man's body through the plaster ceiling and then drilled 100 holes in a circle through the steel floor of the vault. Sawing out this circle, a man crawled through the two holes stood upright in the vault and passed all the cash he could find down to his confederates below.

They got $72,000, but in a small safe inside the vault law $3,000,000 more, and the combination to this safe was pinned upon the wall of the vault where the robbers could have read it and opened the safe, had they taken the time.

After the ceremony a delightful repast was served. The decorations were profuse and tastefully arranged for the occasion.

THE LOSS OF LIFE FROM 'QUAKE MAY REACH 7,000

Creates Terrible Want and Distress—Fissures Swallowed Up Homes.

Constantinople, Aug. 11.—The interruption of telegraphic communication makes it very difficult to obtain accurate details of the disastrous seismic disturbances which occurred August 9 on both sides of the Dardanelles.

No accurate figures of the number of victims can yet be tabulated, though some estimates place the death list at 1,000 and the injured from 6,000 to 7,000.

In the town of Shary-Koy, which was destroyed, 60 persons were killed and 150 injured. Fires are reported from many cities in which numerous buildings were destroyed.

Fissures opened to a length of about a mile along the river at Lule-Burgas, 40 miles southeast of Adrianople, swallowing many dwellings. From the apertures hot water, sand, steam and sulphurous vapors were emitted.

Everywhere in the stricken zone there is terrible want and distress. Appeals for doctors and help are constantly being received at the capital, and the Government is doing its utmost to satisfy them. The hospitals here are crowded with injured persons.

The Vail of Adrianople to-day reported to Constantinople that the loss of life there was small. The quake, however, seriously damaged the public buildings of the city.

Three renewed earth shocks were felt here to-day. It is reported that a volcanic island is forming in the sea of Marmora.

COW GIVES BIRTH TO TWINS AND TRIPLETS

New Orleans, Aug. 12.—Veterinarians here claim for Metairie Ridge, a suburban district of the city, the distinction of having the prize non-race suicide cow of the country. She recently gave birth to triplets, and the three calves, contrary to what veterinarians say is the precedent in such cases, are healthy. The same cow, ten months ago, gave birth to twins.

Never Too Old to Fish.

Boston, Aug. 12.—Mrs. Lydia A. Rockwell, who is dead at the age of 106 years, at her home in Hyde Park, was, until two years ago, an expert fisherwoman. She landed her last large trout on her 104th birthday, while fishing with a party of friends in Maine.

Gov. Woodrow Wilson sat for three hours in a New York studio while an artist sketched a charcoal likeness of him. The portrait is to be used during the campaign.
